

OCEAN DRIVE

Spotted: Martha Stewart, Chrissy Teigen & More Have the Best SOBEWFF Weekend Ever

The South Beach Wine & Food Festival is like spring break for chefs: Scott Conant celebrated his birthday in a big way, Chrissy Teigen ate burgers with Rachael Ray, and Bobby Flay went bowling... twice. Here, we look back at the best celeb sightings of the weekend.

Martha Stewart Picks Favorites at Best of the Best

Martha Stewart and chef Jonathan Lane.

The one-and-only Martha Stewart kept busy during the festival, hitting up the Best of the Best event at Fontainebleau Miami Beach on Friday, February 20 where her alleged favorite bite came from local talent and executive chef of Traymore at Metropolitan by COMO, Jonathan Lane. But she dipped out early to get some rest for her big day on Saturday, which included brunch at Dolce and a book signing for her newest release, Clean Slate, at Macy's in Dadeland.

Giada De Laurentiis Dishes Out Advice at the Grand Tasting Village

Giada De Laurentiis divulged her secret to looking so good on Saturday, February 21: she eats a bit of everything and not a lot of anything. She was spotted practicing this mantra at the Matador Room at The Miami Beach Edition, enjoying drinks and light bites with frequent Chopped judge Alex Guarnaschelli.

Chrissy Teigen & Rachael Ray Get Their Burger On

Geoffrey Zakarian, Chrissy Teigen, Katie Lee, Lee Brian Schrager, and Rachael Ray.

Sports Illustrated model Chrissy Teigen supported her Oscar-winner husband John Legend at the Academy Awards on Sunday, but just two nights earlier, Teigen was spotted getting down with the crowd and noshing on buns with Rachael Ray at the Burger Bash.

J. Cole Hides Out at Mondrian

Hip-hop artist J. Cole might have nothing to do with gastronomy, but he was seen laying low over the weekend—at Mondrian on Friday evening and again poolside on Saturday. We're pretty sure he ate something, too.

Scott Conant Invites Guy Fieri & Robert Irvine to His Birthday Party

Guy Fieri and Robert Irvine at the Thompson.

The first night of SOBEWFF also happened to be chef Scott Conant's birthday. To celebrate, the Chopped judge and chef/owner of Corsair and Scarpetta had a late-night soirée at the Thompson, where he took shots of his favorite tequila, Casa Dragones, with former colleagues Michael Pirolo of Macchialina and Top Chef New Orleans runner up Nina Compton. Also there: Guy Fieri, Ted Allen, Robert Irvine, and virtually everyone who's anyone in the culinary field.

Robert Irvine & Jamie DeRosa Serve Brunch to the Stars

Michael Chiarello, Geoffrey Zakarian, Robert Irvine, and Jamie DeRosa.

Mr. Restaurant: Impossible himself teamed up once again with Tongue & Cheek's Jamie DeRosa for the second annual Kitchen Collab Brunch on Friday afternoon. Apparently chefs love brunch as much as we do, because the meal brought out culinary all-stars like Geoffrey Zakarian, Ted Allen, Scott Conant, and Michael Chiarello for bottomless Bloody Marys to recover from the night before.

Jonathan Waxman Kicks Back at Joe's

If there's one place where a celebrity sighting is expected, it's Joe's Stone Crab. Jonathan Waxman dined at the SoFi institution, and while we're not sure exactly what he ate, we're guessing that there was crab claws involved—and presumably some key lime pie.

Bobby Goes Bowling at the Basement

Bobby Flay.

SOBEWFF's most recognizable redhead, Iron Chef Bobby Flay, showed he's got more than knife skills by bowling back-to-back nights (Thursday and Friday) at the Basement, The Edition's retro digs. Afterward, Flay and a surplus of top toques let loose upstairs at Tropicale; the roster included French genius Daniel Boulud, Anne Burrell, Andrew Zimmern, Marcus Samuelsson, and Marc Forgione.

Diego Boneta Joins Fabio Viviani for Dinner

Rock of Ages star and the modern-day Dylan in The CW's 90210 Diego Boneta wine and dined at Siena Tavern's intimate Tuscan dinner hosted by Top Chef contestant Fabio Viviani, actress Debi Mazar, and her husband Gabriele Corcos. But Boneta didn't stop there—his evening continued at WALL, where girls flocked to his table.

Dominique Ansel Can't Get Enough of Miami's Seafood

The man behind the cronut likes savory, too. Dominique Ansel posted a pic on Instagram of a bowl of aji amarillo ceviche on coconut rice with a side of guac from My Ceviche. He must really love seafood, because the next day he hit up Joe's for some stone crab before flying home to New York.

Todd English Gets Some Exercise

All that eating demands a workout, which could be why The Chef Agency hosted Ride for Hunger, a celeb-packed fitness event for City Harvest, at Flywheel Sports on Friday. Todd English and his son Oliver were high-fiving while they cycled, but ultimately local chef Todd Erickson won the "race".

PHOTOGRAPHY COURTESY OF GABRIEL BANCORA/GETTY IMAGES (TEIGEN)